

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1894.

THE CANDIDATES.

We submit the following, not because of the beautiful poetic sentiment, the rhythm or rhyme it contains, but because of the truth and good advice for the Republican candidates. It is written by the "rich nigger" who is now languishing in the "Hutchinson" jail awaiting transportation under a sentence of two years in the penitentiary. He is a good Democrat and it seems to be a pity that he is a horse thief.

Mr. William Ahl,
You have no show at all;
Your party put you in the race
And you can plainly see
You have a doubtful place;
You take a fool's advice
And withdraw,
If you do not,
You will be
The worst beat man
The county ever saw,
For Mr. Allen Murray
Is a judge of law.

Mr. J. O. Cunningham,
I am sorry for you;
I will tell you with ease
Mr. Carr is no place.
Take it in time,
See your leaders and resign,
And now is the time;
If you wait 'till November,
Richardson will have
The office.

The county will pay him
The wage,
And leave you and your party
Chewing of the rag.

Look out, Mr. Shifman,
Deference is on the boat;
And if it were left to printers,
You would not get a vote.
This is what I will tell you
Before you further advance,
I would not give a nickel
For your November chance.

Mr. Pale,
You put in your bid
Too late,
This county will go
Democratic straight.
The people say Mr. F. K. Rhodes
Is here.

If you are bound
To have a job,
You be
His boss.
He will ride you to town
And hitch you to a limb.
As soon as he gets through
With his business
He will ruin you again;
He will ride you then
'Till your back
Goes sore,
And then you will be
A Democrat
Forever more.

Mr. Reuben Miller,
I am surprised at you
To undertake a job
You know you cannot do.
It would be the best thing
For you
You ever done
To resign.
Before the race is run.
Mr. Milton Board
Is a judge of law.

And just as when a Democrat
Answer you now,
Mr. Board will win the race,
Win it by fair means.
We is opposed to printers,
The darlings only
Simply because they are green.
I dreamed a dream the other night
When every thing was still;
Mr. Board was riding Miller
Up a Breckenridge hill.

Mr. Miller said to Board
'My back is getting sore'
'Others may do as they please,
But I am a Democrat
Forever more.

GEORGE WASHINGTON RANDOLPH.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is absolutely unequalled as a blood purifier and strengthening medicine. It is the ideal spring medicine. Try it.

OBSERVATIONS.

I. MA. ENTREE—While sojourning for a moment upon the shores of humanity, I made some observations which I wish to dedicate to the readers of your paper.

Finding your native people tearing down the altars and stoning and slaying the prophets like Elijah, I hid in the cave and looked for the Lord to appear in the whirlwind, the earthquake and the fire. But the Lord was in neither, but in that "still small voice" that whispers, "what doest thou here?"

I found your native people trying to growne fruit, all kinds of melons and fruits on one vine, and fearing I was in "The World of Chance" was speaking I have never desired to be—I returned to the cave, but the Voice says, "Go forth," and here I am again in your country where chance is still at work.

In a town of 300 inhabitants there are two or three conflicting doctrines taught from the same "Holy Word," and in a town of 1,500 inhabitants may be found five or six so-called evangelical churches, each holding opposite and conflicting doctrines, yet all using the same version of scriptures, the same bible and perhaps all preaching on the same day as many conflicting teachings from the same "Holy Word." Surely, "These things ought not to be."

In God the author of confusion? We read that "God is not the author of confusion but of peace, as in all the churches of the saints." 1 Cor. 14—33.

Then whence these divisions among you? Is not the word of God plain and when preached by the Holy Spirit sharper than a two-edged sword? And when Jesus said "I am the vine and ye are the branches, it is plain from the following verse that he was speaking of individuals and not to churches, for it reads "He that abideth in me and I in him, let that man bring forth much teaching was unity, and Paul reversed the same. "If any man will do that he worship me teaching for doctrine the commandments of men."

I cannot remain with this people as I prefer to live where God reigns and clapping two palms together, as he would slap himself in the face with the SIROCCO.

Cut worms are playing havoc with corn in this section.

Married in Louisville, the 1st inst., Mr. Wolf Smith to Miss Flora Sibley.

Died, at his home in Mauckport, Ind., the 5th inst., of pulmonary consumption, Mr. Willie Gwartney.

Miss Maud Jones, Greenville, Ind., is expected to arrive at the home of Mr. Marshall at Brown the 17th inst., for an indefinite visit.

Roast Sirocco? Shucks, you don't roast Sirocco with foxes, he ain't built that way.

"Having been called like Bangoo's Ghost, I stood forth but unlike it, being a woman, I come not speechless."

Babbler, don't you wish you had come like Bangoo's Ghost and made a tableau of yourself? Ha, ha.

Rev. Funkhouser and wife, of Little Rock, Ind., visited Mrs. Funkhouser's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Current, last week.

The mind was terribly stirred up between James Haynes and George Brown's 6th inst. It seemed like somebody was trying to play a game of April fool.

Mrs. Emil Miller spent last week in Indiana visiting friends. Her husband who accompanied her over there only remained several days on account of the many demands on the farm at this season of the year.

Gough Grinnell, Tek and Johnnie Haynes, Brandenburg, were last week visiting at Mr. Marshall Brown's and locating the Ark. The boys said they were going to call on Mr. Noah and inspect the interior of the ark.

"Hopes that were bright several weeks ago in regard to the prospects for apples have degenerated into a state of dejection."

"Of all that glitters, gold is not," said Josiah Allen's wife or was it Allen said that? Well, it matters not, it was said by one of 'em, so it's all in the family.

Brace up folks "Oh, why doth the spirit of man feel and?" Strawberries will soon be ripe and after them come blackberries, next watermelons and then persimmons and "poomsa—whoopee!" what the matter with you all, any way?

"Lodlberg, the reason that we see alike, and why you can't see as others see is because you have to look through so much muddy water that it almost hides everything else."—Kirk.

Kirk, those people got that muddy water in their eyes following Christ. Let us hear from another sanctification. We have your views now on the "vine," the "Lords prayer" and "Baptism," give us something else to digest.

Dr. Clark, of Louisville, a former Lexingtonian, who was in our midst last week and has recently been in Lexington, inform me that the people in general of the Blue Grass region are terribly down on Breckenridge and that he has no more shore for relection than a hog has. How can it be otherwise with an intelligent class of people?

When my letter came out week before last it reminded me of a kite, which having come in contact with a cyclone, lost its causal appendage. I thought perhaps that Babbler had gotten hold of it and pulled it into the moon, but it came out all right next week. Good thing that the biggest out of it was delayed it might have paralyzed Stephensport. Golly, I wish I had a printing press of my own, wouldn't I make people howl? and such fun.

My work keeps me so busy I can't get out to hear much news, wouldn't have entered the column this week had it not been for the purpose of thanking my friends, Brandenburg, Lodlberg, Beverlyville, Preston and Gypsy Made of the Messenger, for their compliments, of which I am at a loss to find words suitable for expressing my appreciation. Such unvarnished praise from the best of correspondents is indeed encouraging to one who is situated in the rural districts where the facilities for gathering news are fraught with difficulty.

"Oh, yes, I wanted to straighten up that 'baby business' too."

Preston, Preston, My stars woman, don't talk so loud. They'll hear you all over Newle county. That was all a joke in regard to the "little ones," I declare it was. I only wrote it for the sake of amusement. My sentiments and those of Gypsy Made run in the same channel.

"I heard 'em' too back-ward, oh time, 'em' you fight a child against for tonight?"

Victims returned from a neighboring shore. Pray for a stock law, don't ask for more.

That is altogether a mistaken idea of yours in regard to any malignancy existing between me and the "little ones."

If such was the fact, never again would I hang up a sign: "Photographer exclusively."

Many times I have sat up and laughed "till the tears would roll down my face, watching my partner (who was a married man and boasted of four little specimens of wedded life) nose the "best little tots (of customers who pretended to know more about the art of peeing than the artist himself) whose peculiar graces, determined to make a dime out of great beads of aggravated perspiration to stand out like hanging drops of rain from his "sophisticated brow."

While working at Bellevue, Ky., by myself, a spirit of mischief got the best of me, one evening when some ladies came into my gallery bringing in with them several small children, one of whom, a little girl of some five or six summers was terribly sick and I was speaking to her, and she every now and then. The pecky seemed determined to have his picture taken with the little girl who was a perfect model of beauty and simplicity.

Really, the subject was one that the most fastidious artist would have been pleased with. Again and again I poised and focused my little subject and every time I would attempt to unclose the shutter in my camera exposing the plate, a little hand would go up: "what, what," would echo and re-echo like clapping two palms together, as she would slap herself in the face with the pain of her hand, the ticks leaving a red spot here and there, causing her little dimpled face to present the appearance of a peach, while she angrily vociferated, "Oh, det absoooter, det absoooter, det absoooter!" Then Sirocco would fall back and give vent to peal after peal of laughter that would cause people on the street to rush in to learn what the excitement was about.

White drifting over this town's broad way How often will my thoughts recall The excitement that we had that day And hurried from the reach of all.

No "Nancy," Sirocco is not adverse to children. As a last resort, I suppose, I must have an exception to the general rule but really, I am fond of children and love to see them reveling in their child-like simplicity, and never knew a child to express dislike for "Sirocco." As you say, I was a child once myself, and have no cause for being ashamed of my childhood, was as free from guile as the average child, and have made it a rule through life to conduct myself in a gentlemanly manner. If in writing for the press my effusions seem harsh or unsmooth, the duplicity is only for the sake of variety which annoys many whom the even tenor of one's way would not interest. I have been suspecting for some time that Preston was the same identical "Nancy Hank" that used to write such interesting letters to the Messenger, and now I know it, and sincerely hope she will continue to serve us the news in her own good style.

The vast facilities of the J. C. Ayer Co. of Lowell, Mass., enable them to place The Superior Blood-purifier, Dr. Sarsaparilla, within easy reach of the poorest invalid. Don't be induced to take a "cheap" substitute. Always remember that the best is the cheapest.

NOTES ON NIGHTMARE.

Has Cultivated a Taste for "Skeery" Dreams and Eats Big Suppers on Purpose.

Almer J. Bellethorpe, the wealthy wallpaper manufacturer, of Painted Post, who is stopping at the Gilley House, is in one way a decidedly unique personage. Sitting in the lobby of the hotel yesterday afternoon with ex-Congressman Kinsky, of Iowa, Dr. John Mendelberg and several other friends, he discoursed eloquently on the delights of the nightmare. "It may sound absurd," he said, "but it is, nevertheless, an absolute fact that I fairly gloat over a first-class, ghastly, hair-raising, flesh-creeping nightmare. And I'm an expert in using them, too. The reason I enjoy them is because I possess the power of partly retaining consciousness as the terrifying climax approaches and sort of standing aside as a spectator, as it were, and enjoying my own hideous fix. This is a cultivated power and has only come to me by slow degrees, but so thoroughly have I grasped it that I now look forward to my nightmares with the keenest curiosity and delight. For a while I am as utterly unconscious as any dreamer, but as the situations were more and more unpleasant and the mare begins to gallop faster and faster toward the finish of her career I begin to be dimly aware that I'm all right, and then my fun begins in wondering how I will turn out. But there is a flaw in my diamond, for the climax don't arrive as invariably get too wide awake to permit it to reach that point where the ordinary sleeper from nightmare awakes in a cold perspiration just as the three-headed pink and green teraphim opens its jaws to bite his head off, or he slips off the skywalk yard of a forty-masted ship sailing over an ocean of boiling tar."

DAY CROCKET.

Some Reminiscences of His Tennessee Life—A Bear Hunt—Grave of Mrs. Crocket.

In South Central Tennessee and in Franklin county, about thirteen miles from Winchester, the county seat, there is a place called Round Mountain, and if we were called on to describe the place, we would just say that there is one mountain on top of another mountain. It is as near as we could estimate about 1,200 feet above the level of the plain that is back in Southern Tennessee. To the top of this mountain two hunters were sending their way one morning about the year 1814 looking for game and just as they reached the summit, they saw a bear coming towards them. Both men made ready and fired on him, but as is generally the case, failed to reach a vital spot, and the bear smarting from wounds, made at his adversaries. But one man by the name of Hatfield, overcame him, turned and fled down the side of the mountain, leaving his comrade to deal with the bear single handed. And there it was with no eye to witness and nothing to depend on but his own hands that Davy Crocket killed the bear. On a tree that stood near the spot he cut his name and the date, but the tree is gone and there is nothing left to mark the spot save the memory of the older inhabitants of that section. About two miles north of that mountain down between two mountains where the sun is in sight but half of the day, where a cool spring runs out from under a rock and at that time many miles from any settlement, was young Crocket's camp and west of this camp about three miles in a beautiful spot, shaded from the rays of the sun by beautiful evergreen trees, a place known as the Hatchet Grave yard lie the remains of Davy Crocket's wife. Some fine places from the above spring and near the bank of No creek stands a beech tree with Davy Crocket's name carved in the bark, date 1813.

An Index to Prosperity.

A veritable era of prosperity has struck the Kentucky towns. The exodus to the West, to Louisville, St. Louis and Cincinnati, has been a constant drain on the surplus inhabitants, and in the cities and towns there is enough employment for all who desire it. Judging from the appearance of our exchanges there is exceedingly good times in the State.

Several of our estimable contemporaries have enlarged, notably the Glasgow Times, Breckenridge News and Russellville Ledger, others have acquired new capital, and all are so chock full of good, juicy advertisements.—Louisville Star.

Mr. W. T. Gregory, wife and little son, Grove, visited his parents last week.

Miss Lydia Macy was at home visiting her parents last Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. H. C. Hook filed his register appointment at Pleasant Grove Sunday.

Mrs. L. B. Helm, Mrs. Dr. Napper, Mrs. Robt. Vaughn and sons, of Stephensport, were down shopping, last Thursday.

Miss C. P. Bahlage and son Pitts returned from Louisville yesterday. Master Pitts seems to be much improved in health.

Mrs. J. B. Randall and sister, Miss Lee Farnham, left Monday morning on the steamer "Congo" to visit their old home at Bellefonte, Ohio. Mrs. Randall will be gone about three months.

The following young couples, from Cloverport, attended the entertainment at Hardinsburg last Wednesday night: Gordon Moorman and Lela Owen, Fred Hopper and Bessie Hamilton, Fred Fraize and Minnie Murray, Hal Murray and Jennie Warfield, Roy Heyser and Jennie Murray.

Dangerously Ill.

Will Pierce, whose illness mention was made in these columns last week, has been lying at the point of death, with typhoid fever, for several days. He was not expected to live through Monday night, but he rallied slightly early yesterday morning and was still alive yesterday evening, though his death is looked for at any moment. Will Pierce is about the age of 25 years of age, and is the youngest son of the late H. C. Pierce.

Murray Post.

G. A. R. No. 19, Department of Kentucky, Cloverport, will hold conference exercises at Joe Tan's, Breckenridge county, May 30, 1894. Good speakers will be in attendance. Everybody is invited to come and those who can possibly do so are especially requested to bring their dinner and something for somebody else. The ladies are invited to bring a full supply of flowers, etc.

The Pateville Post will be in attendance to assist in the exercises, and if the weather will permit, there is expected to be a large crowd present. Confederate soldiers are also invited to attend and take part.

WM. S. GALLWAY, Commander.
WM. ARL, Adj't.

John Robinson is Coming.

John Robinson's advertising card arrived in this city yesterday, and now several thousand feet of bill boards are covered with the gayest of pictures of many colors, and the small boy of Cloverport is happy. This great combination of shows will be here June 15th, and is the first circus that has struck the town for a period of about five years you can expect the whole community to close up shop on that day and go gunning for fun.

The Hagood Case.

The witnesses in the Hagood affair were before the grand jury last week, and an indictment was made against Mr. Hagood. He was held on the same bond that he had already given, and his trial was set for the October term of Circuit Court.

Hancock Democratic Candidates.

The Democratic primary in Hancock county last Saturday resulted in the following ticket being placed in the field: County Judge, W. W. Taber; Clerk, Ben Foindester; Attorney, E. E. Kelley; Sheriff, Geo. Lewis; Assessor, W. H. Williams; Jailor, David Butler; Coroner, John S. Heyser; Surveyor, Street Smith. The ticket is a very strong one, and is well distributed.

Spending several days with their daughter, Mrs. John Radley, of Elizabethtown.

John Denton, while painting Mr. Jim Cox's fence, fell from the ladder, breaking his arm in two places. Dr. Pusey set the fracture and he is doing well.

Miss Mona Price has returned from the A. & M. College, Lexington, where she has been a student in the Normal department. Mona is delighted with the school and made rapid advancement.

That unford neody "Sweet Marched" Neil Kowles is always pretty but after seeing some fine specimens from Mattie Lee Moreman's bush I can realize more fully that just as the beauties must have inspired the composer of the ballad.

The M. E. Sewing Circle will meet at Mrs. J. W. Richardson's room on Thursday afternoon. She says if there isn't a goodly number out she'll be sure to say, "Just because I'm a Baptist girl." Fill her room and go early and stay late.

A pupil of Mr. Grinnell's, in writing from Irvington to the Messenger, offers me sweet spiritual consolation. I do not and cannot doubt God's goodness, and I know that He chastises in love, but I freely confess, I'm utterly uncombed and nothing like comfort reaches me.

The twelfth General Conference of the M. E. church South now in session at Memphis, Tenn., is engaging the attention of the entire church on account of the many important measures to be considered, and then the conference is the highest council of the church, and is an executive, legislative and elective body.

One of the most interesting cases to be argued is that of Rev. Sam Jones, who was deposed from the ministry because of his refusal to take regular pastoral work. It seems that these wandering lights must be amenable to some recognized authority and not "free lance" who was deposed from the ministry because of his refusal to take regular pastoral work.

Dr. Cottrell is Ill

Mrs. G. W. Short was called by telegram to Russellville last Friday because of the sudden serious illness of her father, Dr. J. B. Cottrell, while enroute to Memphis to attend the General Conference of the M. E. church South. Word was received here yesterday that the Doctor was better and was rapidly recovering.

A Master Mason

Cloverport Lodge F. and A. M. conferred the degree of Master Mason on Rev. S. G. Shelly at a called communication Monday night. A large crowd of Masons were present, refreshments were served and the happy family of Master Masons did not break up 'till 11 o'clock. The following visitors were present: O. Denny, Ernest Rinkle, Chas. Clark, Oscar Lee, Tins Cummings, Stephen Rutherford, Chas. Shelden and J. H. Hunsche, Cannelton, Ind.; H. W. Dowell, Vine Grove, R. E. Woods, Louisville.

Messrs. Pierce Hardaway and Roy Cain and Misses Blanche Jolly and Mary Blanford attended church at Big Spring Sunday.

Miss Bettie Drury went to Hardinsburg Wednesday. She will take part in an entertainment to be given at that place Wednesday night.

Mr. Julian Beavin died at her home Wednesday night, May 9th. She had been confined to her bed several months with consumption, but bore her sufferings bravely to the last. Funeral services were conducted Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Catholic cemetery near Irvington. The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

WEST VIEW.

Dr. Hart, of McDaniels, was in this place Monday.

West View can again boast of two large dry-goods stores.

The sheep of this neighborhood are having a fearful time.

Miss Neddie Hunter is visiting her sister, in this place, this week.

Farmers are busy now plowing corn ground and preparing tobacco ground.

Children's day will be celebrated at Cold Spring the second Sunday in June.

Remember Brown's excursion to Louisville, Saturday, May 26. Only $1.00 for the round trip.

A certain young man, of this place, is wearing a long face for some cause. "He says his dog is dead."

Miss Cora Matthews has returned from Louisville, where she has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Davies.

A small company of four young ladies and eight young men were the guests of Misses Mattie and Ella Pumphrey last Sunday evening, May 13.

A nice entertainment was given by Mr. Davis Tuesday night. The company was entertained by a good string band.

The evening was quite pleasant to all present.

Mrs. Kate Milen, of this neighborhood, departed this life May 6th, 1894. Mrs. Milen was born in Breckinridge county, near Union Star, Aug. 20th, 1846. She was married to William Milen Sept. 20th, 1864, was converted in Union Star in 1864 and lived a Christian, and died in the faith which she professed. She had all her children married and settled in life but two, one boy of 18 years and a little girl of eight. She leaves a mourning husband and many friends.

McDANIELS.

Mrs. Lizzie Quiggins is very sick.

Marcus Mattingly, of Kirk, was here Saturday.

Horace Butler, of West View, was here Friday.

Born, to the wife of Mr. W. E. Rhodes on the 13th a little daughter.

News is scarce this week. I have been too busy to hunt up any.

Great in Genius—Great in Weakness.

HARDINSBURG, K.Y., May 19, 1894.—When in the course of human events a man honored of men and admired of women, occupying a position high in the councils of the nation by his willful acts, proves himself false to honor and to humanity by violating his marriage vows, demonstrating his unworthiness of being a husband and father, admitting that he has pandered to the lowest and most ignoble passions of the human soul comes before an intelligent constituency asking their endorsement for a seat in Congress, it would be well for his Congressional district, for Kentucky and for this nation that they consider well the far reaching influences and consequences of their decision, which is to be rendered through their ballot.

The school-boy and school-girl of today are familiar with the published accounts of the celebrated "Breach of promise and seduction suit," instituted by Madeline Pollard against W. C. P. Breckinridge, Kentucky's famed orator and Congressman. The great details of our land have recorded all the details as testified to in court.

The question in the minds of the youth of the land, is may a man who so far, as natural genius and acquired education endowments go, has reached that pinnacle longed for by many and attained by few, may he summon to his aid his great talent in achieving and accomplishing all that is base and ignoble, and then after nine years of deception, folly and rottenness brought to light through the desire for revenge of a scorned, if not wronged woman, may he again call into requisition his abilities in convincing the voters of his district that they should reelect him to Congress, in stead of a man more worthy? (If he can be found).

If this be true, then the most potent reason for acquiring educational ability is that we may delve in corruption and treachery and yet retain position and prominence among men.

It is said that the human race is degenerating, it certainly evinces a stage of deterioration, when an intelligent people are willing, (if they are to retain in Congress, for participate in making laws for them and their posterity, a man who though he be the very embodiment and quintessence of grandiloquence, evinces weakness that disqualifies him for honors to which he aspires, but does not merit.

It may be true that catastrophe and corruption are as much a part of the plan of nature as quietude and harmony, and that the rise and fall of nations is a circle of revolutions, that a nation rises in the scale of progress, development and civilization to a certain point and then falls of its own inability and weakness.

A few hundred years ago the legends were proclaimed that man was capable of self-government, upon that principle was founded our free republic, which, has been our pride and has been respected and honored by the civilized world.

The stability and durability of our government is derived from the people, while their intellectuality inspires them with honesty, frugality and morality. This government will stand, when personal aggrandizement, deception, bribery and corruption of disreputable names, may realize the portent of coming national disaster, if not dissolution.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

(Farmers Home Journal).

The market has been without special features this week. The slight advance during the day on Thursday last week and which was noted in our last report has barely been sustained this week.

The warm days of this week have started fresh tobacco into a decided sweat, and it is of course impossible to tell whether it will come through the sweat sweet or not. Buyers are examining the condition of the hoghead very closely and are discounting the price heavily for soft condition. Color types meet with best demand. Good red fillers are steady and strong, while common red fillers have eased up perceptibly since last week, and are a trifle irregular.

The week has been exceedingly favorable to the growth of plants, and setting is progressing rapidly, whenever they have had a season.

These quotations are for sound, merchantable packages. If otherwise prices range from $1 to $1.50 per pound.
